Jonathan is founder and President of Project Eye-To-Eye, a mentoring and advocacy non-profit organization for students with learning differences. With the publication of Learning Outside The Lines (now in its 14th printing) when he was 23, Jonathan has established himself as one of the foremost leaders in LD/ADHD, disabilities, and alternative education. His second book, The Short Bus: A Journey Beyond Normal, is a memoir, published by Henry Holt in June, 2007. Lauded as “a heartfelt rebuke to the rigid definitions of normality,” by Kirkus Review, the book is Jonathan’s journey across the United States, in a converted short school bus, as he seeks to celebrate cognitive and physical diversity through profiles of people who have been labeled abnormal their entire lives. His work on behalf of students with disabilities was recognized by the LD Access Foundation in 2003 when he was awarded the Golden Advocacy award. Jonathan has been featured and quoted in The New York Times, USA Today, NPR, ABC News, New York Magazine, The Washington Post, The Boston Globe and numerous other local and regional papers in the cities, states, and countries where Jonathan has traveled.

The Erin McKenzie events are proudly co-sponsored by the Friends of the Otterbein College Courtright Memorial Library in connection with the Erin McKenzie Virtual Welcoming Space and Ohio TASH—promoting equity, opportunity, and inclusion for people with disabilities.

Thank You to Ohio TASH

Thank you to Ohio TASH and to Barbara McKenzie and Candee Basford for their hard work in bringing Jonathan Mooney to Otterbein College for a Friends of the Library event. Ohio TASH has co-sponsored our three Erin McKenzie virtual welcoming space events and without their help and financial support, these events could not have occurred. We appreciate their efforts.

Ohio Tash (<http://www.ohiotash.org/>) is a statewide association of members working to develop communities that value and welcome all their members. They wish to take part in building joyful, life-sharing communities that grow from the high expectations that we, as community members, have of ourselves and each other. All of Ohio's communities must grow to include or re-include some who are now missing from our towns, schools, and lives.

The Ohio TASH mission includes:

- Strengthening Voices: our own and those people whose voices have never been heard or have not been heard for a long time.
- Convening Conversations: among colleagues and fellow-citizens so that we can learn from, help, and sustain each other through the hard and focused work of community building and change.
- Reviewing and renewing what we "know so far" about helping people who desire or need it - whether for one person (individual change), or for many (systematic change); and
- Being curators and sharers of the stories of our fellow community members; of our history and collective experience as a culture.

Erin McKenzie Virtual Welcoming Space

In honor of Erin McKenzie, the Otterbein College Courtright Memorial Library has created a virtual welcoming space on the Library homepage at the web-address: <http://www.otterbein.edu/resources/library/ErinMcKenzie/Index.htm> or you can access it by going to <http://library.otterbein.edu>.

The Virtual Welcoming Space is a website to promote learning, discovery, and to confirm and challenge old notions with new ones. It pulls together materials in a variety of formats, on a variety of subjects, that can be easily located and used. Links to materials purchased in Erin's memory are included. Erin McKenzie's life mirrored the lofty goals of this virtual space.

Paul Bierley honored by New Sousa Band

On February 6 during a New Sousa Band performance held at Ohio State University's Wiegel Hall, Paul Bierley was honored for his life long work researching and publishing information about John Philip Sousa. Bierley, a 81-year-old Westerville resident and member of the Friends of the Otterbein College Courtright Memorial Library is the world's leading expert on Sousa. He has spent the last 45 years researching the famous American military composer who lived from 1854 to 1932.

According to an front page article published in the Westerville News and Public Opinion, Bierley first heard Sousa when he was 10 years old and again when he was in high school. Bierley continued his fascination with Sousa and began collecting all things Sousa, including records for 5 or 10 cents from area stores. He indicates, "I thought some day somebody would write a book and tell me about these titles [such as King Cotton and Fairest of the Fair] and where they came from. ... Little did I know that I was going to be the guy to do that." Bierley has published several books and articles about Sousa and is currently working on a definitive photo book of Sousa. In addition to the recognition at the New Sousa Band concert, Bierley also was honored Feb. 7 in Cincinnati by the Ohio Music Education Association. The proclamation stated that Bierley, "opened the window to the past for a new generation of band enthusiasts, performers and listeners." Bierley said it feels wonderful to be recognized for work that spans four decades, but the music itself is rewarding.

Picture by Marion Ettlinger

Helena Maria Viramontes was born in 1954 in East Los Angeles, California, where her parents were migrant workers. She started writing while attending college and won numerous awards for her work. A Modern Maiden's Prayer by Helen Quackenbush

Give me the beauty of Hedy La Marr,
The voice of the famed Alice Faye,
Give me ten fingers, possessing the strength
Rachmaninoff's prelude to play.

Give me the wealth of the Vanderbilt clan,
The power of Father Divine,
Give me the intelligence, wisdom and brains,
Make me a female Einstein.

Give me the dancing career of Miss Rand,
(Don't bother to give me the fan,)
Give me that "something" of Edward Sixth's wife,
So I, too, can capture my man.

Give me the talent of Eleanor R.,
A column as good as "My Day",
And for taking the trouble to scribble these lines,
Professor, please give me an "A".
