Part-time Instructor in Department of Art & Art History: Art for Social Change

Otterbein University seeks an Adjunct (part-time) Instructor in the Department of Art & Art History to teach INST 2603 Art for Social Change in the Autumn 2019 Semester, which runs from August 26th to December 6th, 2019. This Art History course is part of Otterbein's Integrative Studies program, which is the university's general education core curriculum. All courses in the Integrative Studies program address a shared theme of "Knowledge, Action, and the Public Good." INST 2603: Art for Social Change explores how Modern and Contemporary artists raise awareness and/or respond to changing social conditions through a variety of media and topics.

Course meeting times: MWF from 12:40 to 1:35.

MA in Art History or MFA in Art required; ABD or PhD in Art History or related field preferred. Send all inquiries and a copy of your vita to Dr. Amy Johnson, Chair, Department of Art & Art History: ajohnson@otterbein.edu.
