Otterbein's LLC program serves a vibrant community of lifelong learners age 55 and older. The LLC schedule is based on Otterbein's academic semester calendar, with fall semester from August through December and spring semester from February through early May.

Benefits of the Lifelong Learning Community Membership:

- Admission to special events with President John Comerford, experts, lecturers and other special guests visiting campus.
- Exclusive offerings of lectures, discussions, workshops and May mini-courses created for the Lifelong Learning Community members, by members and by Otterbein faculty.
- Discounted tickets to Otterbein Summer Theatre productions.
- Westerville Symphony: Discount tickets for concerts in Cowan Hall October through April.
- Friends of the Courtright Memorial Library: Discounted rate $5 off for first-time members (regularly $20). This applies to new memberships, or those who are not currently Friends of the Library.
- Volunteer opportunities in the Westerville/Otterbein community.

The Point at Otterbein, located at 60 Collegeview Road in Westerville, is the LLC's main class and event facility. It features ample parking, a snack bar and one-level accessibility.

What is the Lifelong Learning Community?

A group of mature learners who are:

- Open to learning.
- Curious about the world.
- Committed to maintaining an active mind for healthy well-being.
- Interested in participating in a year-long menu of virtual or in-person workshops, lectures, May mini-courses, and events designed for LLC members.
- Eager to meet artists, lecturers, and special University guests in formal and informal settings.

Event offerings and topics include art, history, health and well-being, book discussion groups, environmental and social issues, day trips, and other social opportunities.
